Silver is on the verge of recovery of its upward trend. It has failed to make a lower low of large proportions like its previous, pullback > trend movements. It has penetrated a lower channel trendline and closing back above suggests a fake out and further future interest towards the upside. Other markets such as the EURUSD have made a 5 wave decline, and general logic says "long" or "don't short" for tonight's play. What is more crucially important is the lack of negative energy tonight. Positivity is taking toll, with an abundance of trines, and sextiles over benefic planets and Silver will be expected to be most resonant to the positive energy in play tonight.
