You are looking too hard. Trades for the day study each one 4 trades 94 pips. Easy rules based no care for news, higher timeframes or any other junk.
Could have had more but the rules are good enough.

Below is what my trading timeframe look like on a 15M chart and below is the 233T and my trades 5 for 76 pips.

I'm done for the day will work on the Price action now for you all. This is why I love the smaller timeframes.

Hello Trades just popping in to say hello and that I've been real busy with life business and taxes. I hope to get back in here real soon. It is impossible for me to catch up and also see that some have started to make changes. That is really discouraging you were on a good and healthy path. this takes time to develop the skill set. I guess this is the reason many traders never master this business and so many fail. They never take the time to master the technique. The basic skills I have taken the time to show you will take where you all want to go but you have to put in the effort and master them. I'll pop in and out and hopefully next week will have more time to get things back on track if there is still interest in the basic system.

Here are today's trades.

The first chart shows what I was looking at which got me in the first trade and the second chart is a zoomed in view of my three trades for the day.
