Trend Test - for me this is nearly the Holy Grail KIS ... or maybe it is just good fortune ... time will tell

Read an article today about Trends, longer term trends, basically it said that a major trend only changes 3 or 4 times a year.

Casino .set details - Trading 24 hrs - Lot 0.01 (Nothing else - no filters nothing!) - nothing else needed ...

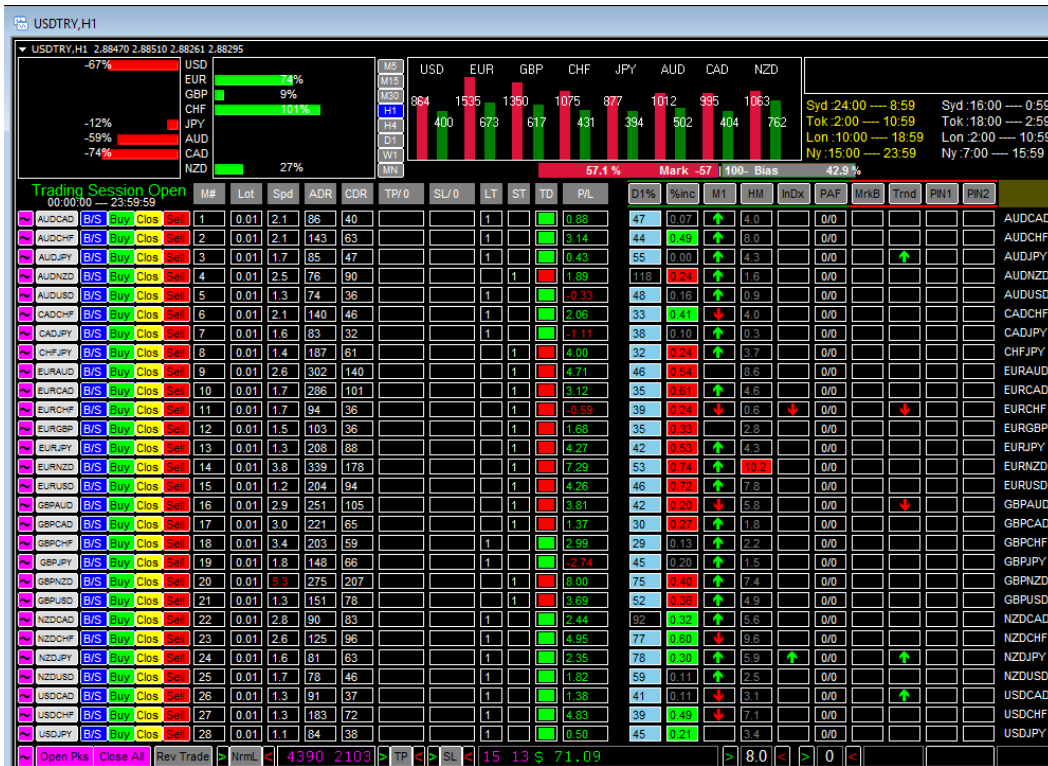

These are the details of the 'long term trend test' - based on the 3 month trend from September 1st 2015 to December 1st 2015.

1. Opened all charts - naked except for EMA at 200 and 240 on a 4H time frame.
2. Looked at the trend i.e. price up or down or basically the same.
3. Once I decide the overall trend looked at the chart on M5 and M1 for entry.
4. Opened all trades based on just the overall trend except the pairs which were basically flat over the period.
5. You can see which pairs these were by the 'Account History' capture below i.e. the bottom 3 pairs.
6. Looked at those with the 200 and 240 EMA and decided whether they were going up or down.
7. Did the same entry process for these as per step 3
8. Let the order run

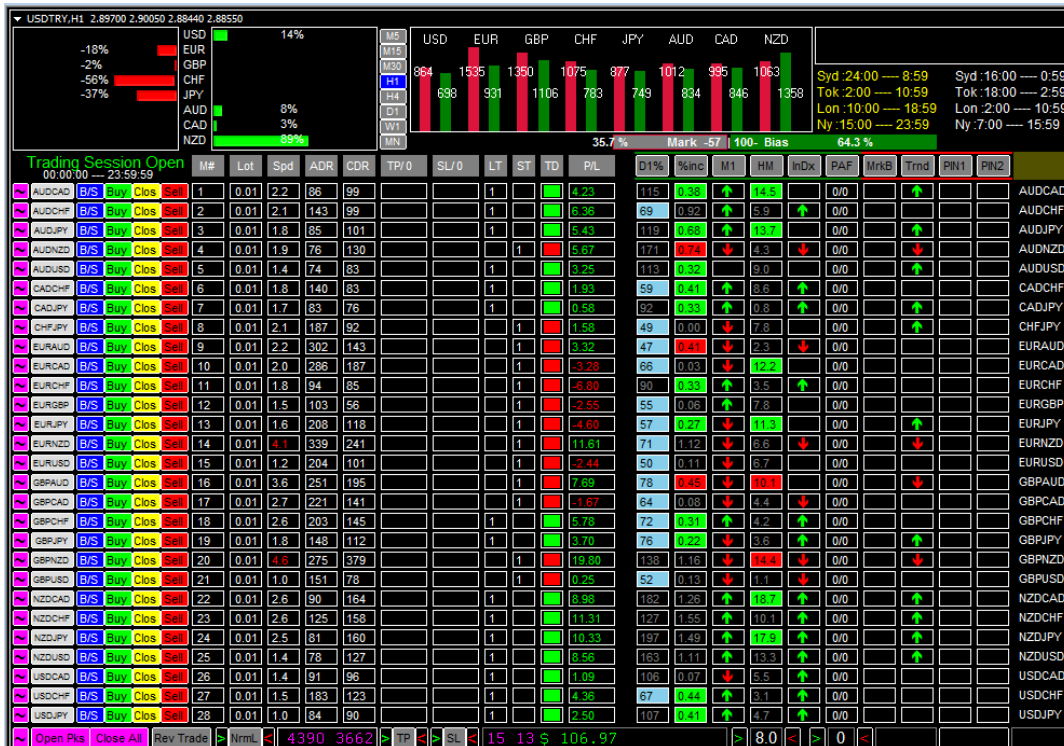

You can see the start and finish times on the 'Account History'

The Casino screen shots were just two of many ...

The first taken 6 hrs 40 mins after 1st Pair selection.

In between these two screen captures the Order cycled down to $39 then progressively changed back to the second screen shot 13 hours 05 mins later.

You can see how long it took to decide the EUR in the Account History (approx 36 mins)

Set an an equity lock before I went to bed and woke to find the order had closed.

Next test is to repeat this and leave open for a much longer period and see what happens ...

Thanks to Seller9 for Casino

All the best ...

Cheers

Questions asked:

Q) What happened if there is a fundamental, a high impact news and you have open trades of the cross that could be affected by....You let them run or close them, or maybe you avoid to trade crosses with high impact news on the horizon...?

A) The first test was closed with an Equity Lock while I slept, so have started again. This is a long term test so I am leaving to run and whatever happens happens. For news releases etc, if they go in favor of the Trend for that pair there will be an obvious benefit, if against the so be it.

I will be using TRND Indi for the news releases with a larger Lot size than the Trend test so if it goes in favour of the trend and the TRND is a success - Win; if it goes against the Trend and the TRND is a success - Win
