Hi guys

Anticipating June and possibly July and August to be correction months for USD. Trump polices will weaken the USD and as everything in forex nothing goes straight up or down.

Anticipating Yen to relax as well. CJ is at beautiful level. Near 80 that's a bargain IMO

CJ lowest since 2016 and that low was caused by severe crash of oil prices.

Just how low can oil prices go and who is hardest hit? 2016!

<https://www.bbc.com/news/business-35245133>

Posting this because we dont have that crises and CAD fundamental are looking good based on recent data.Why 2016 should be dismissed as criteria.

We'll wait until more liquid time to see where PA wants to go on this

Hi Pivoters,

Here is my summarized PDF of Pivot Trading Posts by Davit and others for May 2019.

It is just my way of studying, documenting and sharing my results of this very brilliant FF Thread by Davit and others - as well as, showing my gratitude !

Just remember that like Trump, I am also an expert on all matters of the universe (LOL).

Enjoy:

Not shorting this EU (USD fundamentals weakening hence not buying USD) but its at swing edges ready to drop hence E crosses more likely to gain
EC EA EN EG going south high probability ok ... I do not use pivot, davit .. but I have this pattern in smaller times let me know if you guys want me to post here it might be that add something to your knowledge about pivot. 😊 I use more waves.

Its fine! You can post the patterns but when you add Fib Pivots you get even stronger confluence specially that Fib Pivots 61-100 often correspond to Harmonic shapes.

As an exercise draw a Pattern then place the pivots on top you will be surprised.

Got to go to bed wake up 4.30am

Want to close this evening with this. There are lots of ignorant traders out there guys who say "Pivots are subjective bunch of lines etc"

What traders need most is observational skills. You only need to look at the charts!

Watch where price stopped on EC right on WP coincidence? Random? Don't think so. There are thousands of examples on this thread literally.

Glad closed EC now got my double dipping
After ECB should break 50. Fundamentally with Brexit on its tail Euro can only get weaker with huge chunk of member state separating.
ECB is continuing its dovish projections and with new slowing global economies it will only get worse.

I have no trade this week.
Just relax in Florida, where I have a small condo for seasonal stay.
I flew 10 hours on Monday.

Yesterday I visited Donald Trump in Orlando-FL, I told him, "Thank you for stopping of mess up the economy around the world."

I have good margin to trade, although I also have some exposure in JPY.

I wish many greens pips for everyone there, and please believe me: you are in the best FF thread.

Trump sent you a thumb up too, lol.

ps. that is not a Madame Tussauds, but a nice place to visit in orlando

Welcome back to Florida! On JPY pairs no worries. Yen will get weaker soon BOJ will make sure of it. They are already planning more stimulus. Japanese economy is depended on cheap yen its basically their only tool since they are mostly export based economy.

I have done this long enough to allow the market to correct. Let it be. 🍊

Trump lost a lot of weight 😄

Dont short AC not yet

When you see formations like this dont. Right above pivot below R38 in no mans land. Price is consolidating but often its just bears and bulls are in stalemate.

To see why you must look at the majors UC and AU

Still on EC missed the spike was at work. Still valid short

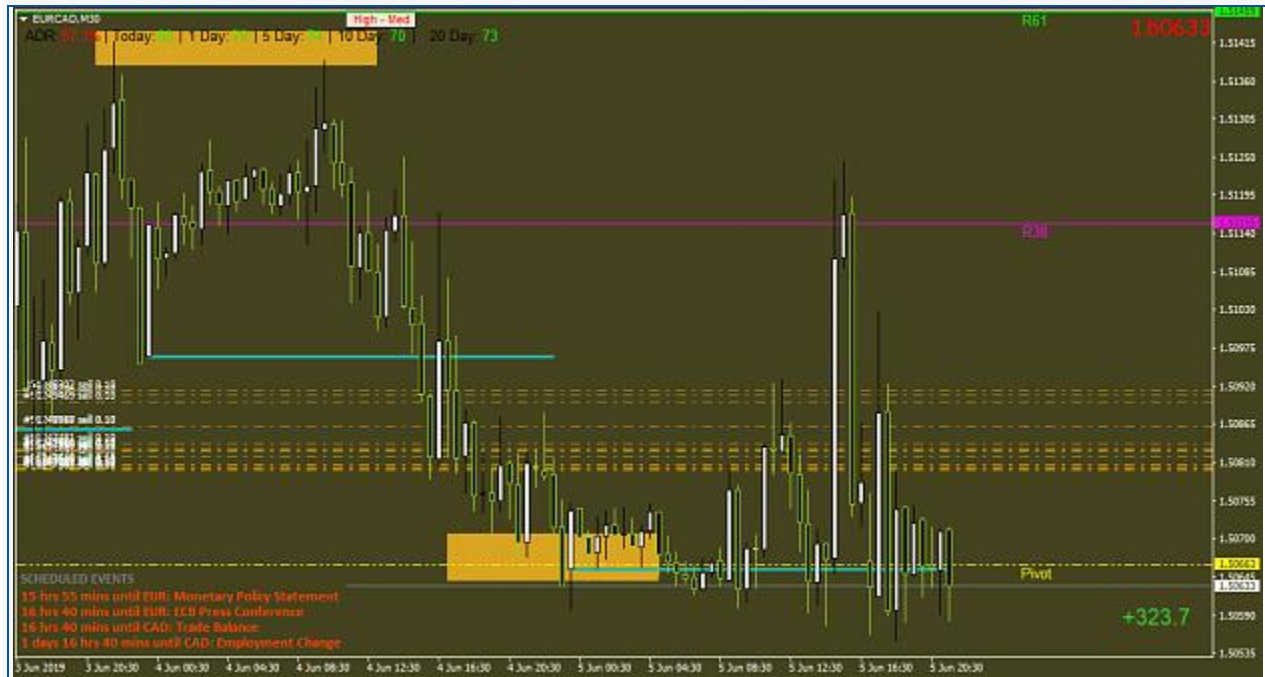

This is one pair that has no real backbone to run away from you. Euro future in general is questionable entire bloc.Wont surprise me it seizes to exist in 5yrs

I dont expect anything positive from ECB specially also Trump promising great trade deal with UK but not with Euro 🤔

Trump is basically a nationalist anti globalist and I believe he is right in this.EU represents globalism which so far is failing and only country is bailing out the others is Germany and that may come to an end soon.

Still short heavy on EC added more to it.
No change on anything other then 7months later maybe rate increase and there are lots of X factors until then.7 months is huge time in forex lots of swings up and down

I need to lighten my overall exposure towards Yen and free positions to be able to put on other trades, UC could be worth watching.

My week went well, DD is still there but under control and managed.

Great week...all around with cad being the big win for me....but caught many obvious pivot oscillations with modest gains....very few losses.....holding EN atm but considering closing as volume and momentum slow for the weekend....anyway, just wanted to express appreciation for all you have done to bring weekly pivot trading to our attention Davit, and your steadfast teaching methods even when you are frustrated with the lack of appreciation for the method. Also, a thank you to all who post both their wins and their losses and for your participation as it shows realism in a real trading environment. Nice weekend to all. 🍷

Yes realism. Like the Kenny Rogers song you have to know when to hold them and know when to fold them. I closed my Corona trade this week at a loss. I only like to look at it if the stars align. Which is the USD $ at a high resistance level and the UM pair at a resistance zone as well. This weeks double whammy that got me was the "Donald" effect with the Tariff announcement out of the blue. Plus the Peso got downgraded with their credit score lowered from +BBB to BBB. At one point on Wednesday I was within $20 of break even I was optimistic that a deal would be reached when it wasn't by early Thursday afternoon I decided to close it, as I did not want to be left a bag holder. As I've indicated before its a very volatile pair, however I have succeeded with it on many prior occasions. I closed my CJ last night prior to CAD news this morning the second one of the week. I had some NQ losses which were completely my fault. I have quick order entry buttons on my trading platform that I program, and I programmed a new one and did it to sell instead of buy and failed to notice. I clicked some orders and got busy on the phone. I was looking to buy it up to 7200. Oh well my Father used to say the Man that does F#^k all wrong is the Man that does F3^k all! Still working a little more today not quite done for the week. EDITED now officially done for the day SP500 day trades closed out on sell orders above the R100 levels. I got stopped out on my trailing stop on 1 minute charts on one order and closed the other manually. Time to go run some errands.

Hi guys

Could not trade at all Friday was at work 11hrs.MIT graduation.

We got a great news Trump says the US has 'indefinitely suspended' planned tariffs against Mexico after reaching a deal

This is good for weakening the Yen as risk factor is decreasing and Yen should be dumped next week

Still long on all my JPY crosses/ NJ holding for 7250+should reach and go beyond next week.

CJ on a one hour. I measured next weeks levels and snapped in a lime green line where R61 will approximately be next week. I've entered this trade again and have also placed a buy order at the T1 level in case we get any pullback. {image}

After Trump cancellation of Tariffs on Mexico I am also interested to get in on this.Did avoid earlier since already have too many JPY trades and didn't want overexposure but Trump is changing once again not just Forex but just about every market

Closed NJ for a small profit, previously was -268 in DD. Again, I can only take what the Market will give me. There is always another trade. The money may be small, but so was the investment. Thanks Davit !!! {image}

Still long on this. You may have got out when things may start ratcheting up on JPY Although in retrospect it was a good decision since Trump was still on Mexico...tariffs. What is interesting to me that when you look at the chart all JPY pairs severely sold off and they all going to find a way to correct. Always happens....Extreme spike on December holiday should not be considered as low liquidity fluke

I have taken notice of some of the best signals you get from the paid version for Harmonics. I have tried to tweak the free versions to match some of your signal but have finally removed them as a viable signal and just concentrate on the pivots as they are. But appreciate your postings of what appears to be very accurate....any thoughts on your journey using them would be interesting. 😊

Hi guys. Been taking a beating this week. Trump factor is full force. You do what you must do to maintain your account. Yes there are times losses are necessary to take. Have no issues taking them. Been quiet myself frankly nothing too exciting to post. AUD employment news today. This currency is like a dead horse getting kicked over and over and may get little spark tonight....We'll see

Took some losses. Was not a good week for me. Had to close positions in red to manage the account and that's what I did.

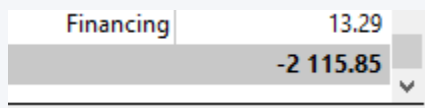

Trump is a huge factor why... Trade war has weakened AUD and NZD severely and bolstered the Yen tremendously.

I am certain this will change. Trump trade failing with China was not anticipated by me or majority in the market...

My attitude is being positive resourceful and cut the weeds until get out of the jungle. In real terms trading is about taking losses as well and profits. One does not happen without the other. On fundamental front focus is on G20 meeting. Should Trump reach a deal or Chinese agree to see him that would be great news for global economies and if it fails expecting Feds to cut rate and I'll be interested in selling USD

Lets see how it unfolds 🙌🍺

{quote} I have this taped up above my Monitor on my Computer Desk. "I will have my Losses, but they will not have Me" Account management is what we have to do. I closed my UM with a loss last week, had I stayed the course I would have had my Corona fund for the Summer. It's always easier looking in the rear view mirror. My trade was textbook USD was at a high resistance pivot level, usually the money flows and the opportunity is there. The unforeseen:

Trump Mexican tariffs threat, a credit downgrade on the Peso from BBB+ to BBB, and Oil falling....

When I was hitting all cylinders people were complaining I was posting winners only 😊 Posting losers as well 😊 To me its a marathon from Jan to Dec.

Took a loss on GC 2.5k at shorting 72.5 and 3 weeks later was below 69. Bad timing happens.

Been here many times and sometimes as in real life you get a curve ball. I deal with it and move on.

Cheers 🙌

Hi guys

Nice corrections. Got lot going on personal life. My younger son fell asleep on a highway driving and crashed his car. Luckily he didn't kill anymore or himself.

He is ok injuries not serious.

Please don't comment on this but just wanted to share why I am absent from the thread.

Thank you

I think EA EN has lot more going south hence keeping my shorts. G20 meeting or by then should reach lower levels.

Hold your positions lady's and gentlemen!!!! G20 next Thursday! Can be epic roller coaster with U, J and A. I am holding all my A pairs. Not closing till I see strong rejection. Look at A unemployment, numbers released 2 times better but % didn't change, it will. Next release. Market needs reason for everything to justify any moves. Patients! Believe in your strategy. It works despite any doubts! Good luck everyone. Have to work now!

Hi guys

UJ I believe hit swing bottom. Taking out stops lets see upsurge to 109+possible.

BOJ already mentioned they will be looking for more stimuli and it's their interest NOT let Yen get too strong Feds are buying time to see how Trade war rewinds. If deal is made they have no real reasons to cut this year if no deal I am certain they have to cut before shit hits the fan.

Odd, I watched Powell's speech today and was left with the impression that he's basically implying he won't dance and sing like a puppet on a string. The FED is independent he won't comment privately or publicly on political interference, and plans on fulfilling his 4 year term as appointed. Rate's holding at 2.5% no immediate cut and will examine again in the future. I thought he sounded more hawkish than dovish. I thought the markets would have perhaps gone down a little with no immediate cut in site yet they continue to chug higher on nothing....

Thanks for the link.Real interesting. Less shipping already has lots of negative ramifications.Nobody can look at that and assume economy is doing well when in fact its not.

Remember guys, better to admit you were wrong and take a loss, than to blow the whole account because you couldn't cut that loss 😊

Nice to have this thread quiet down and free from noobs and trolls.

I am basically holding until G20 meeting and if everything goes right expecting serious corrections on AUD NZD and YEN

Until then hunkered down and avoiding the shells exploding left and right.

Taking losses is at times crucial. Nothing shame being wrong. Its basically a probability game and you can be wrong and that's normal.

As the arab saying goes you can fall down from a horse but dont stay fallen.

I added only few orders at the bottom cause I have already more at the top and still running DD on other A pairs. But dynamics of A today is very promising.

A big Thank You to Davit and all the participants who post. I have learned a ton from you and Pivot Trading will be a part of my arsenal from now on.

I have unsubscribed to many of you whom I respect and hope you do not take it too personal.....I simply do not want to be a part of FF going forward.....the trash that comes with these forums is unbelievable. For example... this morning I was shocked and appalled that George Aus put me on ignore simply because I happened to like someones post....and it had nothing to do with him.....but that's FF at its best.....instant judge and execution by ego maniacs who cannot accept respectful criticism, their egos are too fragile to accept another point of view....cheeeesh!! And when you do well the crap comes flying...I have better things to do than listen too. or be affected by some lunatic from Australia who thinks he has a special place in the universe because he can increase a trade account.

I have survived a thousand battles in my business life, and I have not retired poor....but I have found trading forex to be a real challenge. And as always refused to give up until I resolve a long held believe I too could be competent at this one area of business life that I have struggled with ...pivot trading the Davit way has made that possible....but chat rooms and forums leave me cold and tonight, angry that I could waste the last 8 hours stewing about all this. Time is way to precious to waste on opinions I cannot change.

Best to all....green pips!!!,

Trumps response to the Drown Attack: Trump not retaliating with annihilation over the "Hot Headedness" of the idiot that pushed the missile launch button in Iran, proved once more the diplomatic approach Trump holds. It was never a moment Trump backed down to Iran because of fear. Trump is much smarter then we give him credit for. My take is: it would not surprise me by this time next week during or after the G20 meeting, good news fill the airwaves and the markets come back to some form of normality. (Glad to see Trump not lower himself and be drawn into an unnecessary war over stupidity, there is no point in two dogs barking at one another, at least in this case one of the dogs used his intelligence)

Fear is false evidence appearing real, nothing is impossible if you focus.

Hi friend

I've been there many times and far worse. I have trolls opened a thread with Hitler as a profile over my photo and trash shit posts nothing but moronic idiotic posts.

Realization came to me that I am in control of how I respond to this not them and I Chose to ignore them. Stopped reading threads that my trolls post often and funny part they for most part gave up trolling me....since they get no reaction anymore.

I have guys put me on ignore that I have zero interaction with zero which is ironic really....Point is carry on here at Pivots where you have good friends and traders and focus on your trading.

Cheers and do please stay! 🍺

Holy words! 😊

It takes two to fight, if one renounces this useless waste of energy, it's all over immediately.

I've always followed Swede's trades with interest and I've noticed that there is a lot of studio work behind and this along with a very personal style that I admire and learn from. I too would like you to stay in Davit's thread, but I respect any choice you make.

OPAYQ , I am going to remain neutral in my opinion of what will happen with the USD this week. "Anything can happen in Forex." is a motto that is glued in my brain. Currently 4 Hr S38 is continuing to hold , actually , "slightly trending up". Should be an interesting week though. Regards , GE Hi guys nice corrections on Euro crosses and I am just holding until TP my trades. What's nice getting paid daily +swap. Over 100 on weekend alone and should reach 500 by Friday. Its nice not paying up for a change.

On a side note its interesting once Trump cancelled the attack on Iran liberal news outlets like Bloomberg CNN ABC NBC blasting Trump for backing off starting a war.. Never imagined liberals being blood thirsty! I give Trump props for ignoring the pressure! Bolton and rest of neocons AIPAC door knobs surely were displeased that US did not start a new pointless war. Trump fixes China trade war expect him to get reelected easily.

NU for tomorrow look's awesome what do you think friends 😊? {image} {image}

Hi Mizi

My opinion is rate is expected to be same hence market already knows it 2nd USD is bearish due to Feds rather dovish overtures 3rd G20 meeting on the corner therefore in my view not a high probability trade to short NU unless Friday China trade falls apart then Yes NZD and AUD will take a beating.

I think personally there will be some positive steps on talks. Its in the interest of both China and USA

Powell is speaking at 1pm why there are small spikes going now.
My trajectory is towards Friday. Positive outcome of trade talks will sky rocket UJ up with it Yen crosses. NZD and AUD will recover substetially
Technicals point towards corrections as well

Quoting Halfcents

{quote} This is great! Turning a losing trade to a profitable one, personally i took a loss early this month after seeing no PA..taking a loss is part of trading and i'm totally ok with it. Currently not trading as i'm on vacation but will be back sooner. Have fun and keep killing the market 😊

I took losses on other pairs so its fine.Its a marathon not a sprint.When you'll pay your taxes end of the year that's what counts.IRS does not care if June July was crap...If you show 80k profit for the year or whatever amount it is.I accept the fact that I can control my trades but I can't control Trump's Trade Wars, Iran crises etc. Its basically adapting to the situation.

Risk Aversion or too Risk Averse?

Holding trades over the weekend - for me No!

Small gains have paid off - nothing dramatic in trades for the past 3-4 weeks.

When will we see a more "predictable" market again when we can better assess higher probability trades?

Check out Kathy Lien if you have not already done so!

My 2nd Q (April May June still 1day left of June...)results are green overall. Not the best but considering China trade war crises which unexpectedly pushed my positions to red then had to take losses basically all June and majority of July I am proud of myself fighting back managing my account and coming at top.

Well, I have had a challenging month with money tied up, going nowhere, and in trades that were caught up in the Trump-Xi cluster F...

I refused to close for a loss and the trade refused to move in my direction. That being said, Yes, I made money with no loss. If anything, patience is the game. I can cheerfully say, the method works but patience is key. Meanwhile I've met a bunch of Great Traders on this Thread to whom were friendly and helpful. Thanks Davit !!!

Me too brother! Past 2 months all I was doing is learning patience. Did I make leaving of the trading- of course not, my account is too small for that, but did I improve my trading- YES. Absolutely. There have to be balance between your money, style of trading, time and trades. I tried to be aggressive like Davit and got caught in Trum war with China. Now I am slowly recovering. I trimmed my appetite and my overall expectations. And it looks like it's working for me. First month out of the woods. Will see what happens next.

Same for me and I guess for many other fellow traders here. 😊

I took some profit this week on trades that have been in deep DD and I have some trades still running, of course since my exposure is tilted towards AUD longs, G20 and above all Xi/Trump talks outcome will weight a lot.

One point is for sure, without this special entry position sizing Davit taught us this wouldn't have been possible. and of course patience and trust in the system are two other main pillars.

Thank you Davit.

Hi guys great news

Trump and Xi agree to further trade talks at high-stakes meeting in Japan!

Nice risk off from Yen and had you kept yen pairs open then more reasons to keep your longs! Yen should deflate and AUD NZD gain.NICE

July could become very profitable making up for May June 🚴🏃

Both sides confirmed in separate comments that they did not plan to levy any new tariffs against each other's products at the present time. For one, Chinese state-run press agency Xinhua described the meeting result as the presidents agreeing "to restart trade consultations between their countries on the basis of equality and mutual respect."

Speaking after the bilateral, Trump said it had gone as well as it could have, and that negotiations with China would continue. "We are right back on track," the president said.

On the subject of Huawei, the Chinese telecommunications behemoth that Washington has described as a security risk to the U.S. and allies, Trump suggested he will be reversing his government's decision to ban American companies from selling products to the tech giant. Still, Trump said the issue of Huawei will be resolved only at the conclusion of the negotiations.

Should we act surprised on the USD CHY negotiations? It seems to be a very repeatable pattern with Trump. Make a lot of noise, kick and scream threaten, then negotiate and make a deal. Over and over, and over, My UJ long should turn into a good trade, and my AJ and NJ should recover. Hopefully I'll be scaling in this week. Ever wonder what happened to these two? As Paul Harvey used to say " Now you know the rest of the story. 😊 Little Rascals.
